DETAILED ACTION

Acknowledgment

1. The information disclosure statement filed February 27, 2002 has been entered and acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Regarding claim 24, the phrase "particular" renders the claim(s) indefinite. Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1, 2, 4, 6, 7, 9-14, 24 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nanbu, et al ('971) in view of Takamatsu, et al ('213).

Nanbu, et al discloses an automotive interior trim piece 1, said preweakening 2, 3, 4 applied in a predetermined pattern enabling formation of an air bag deployment opening in said trim piece 1 by pressure exerted by an airbag deploying; said trim piece has an inner surface 7 and an outer surface 8; said outer surface 8 visible from within an automotive vehicle and extending smoothly and uninterruptedly across said preweakening pattern, said preweakening comprising a scoring penetrating into said inner surface and extending along said predetermined pattern, said scoring having a stepped depth configuration along said predetermined pattern but not completely penetrating through to said outer surface. The trim piece 1 includes a substrate layer 7 and an overlying covering layer 8. The preweakening extends completely through said substrate, as shown in Figure 10.

Nanbu, et al teaches the claimed invention except a plurality of layers in the trim piece. Takamatsu, et al discloses a trim piece including a substrate layer 32, an inner covering layer 14 overlying said substrate and an outside covering layer 26 overlying said inner covering layer. The inner covering layer 14 overlying said substrate layer is a foam layer. The preweakening extends partially into said inner covering layer. Takamatsu, et al also teaches said preweakening extends completely through said inner covering layer. The preweakening extends partially into said outer covering layer without completely penetrating through to said outer layer surface. The trim piece includes a substrate layer with one or more covering layers, and wherein said preweakening includes a continuous scoring completely penetrating said substrate layer and extending along said predetermined pattern. Based on the teachings of Takamatsu, et al, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the trim piece of Nanbu, et al to include various layers of material to provide additional protection for an occupant of a vehicle. With regards to stepped depth configured cyclically, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the shape of the scoring, since changing the shape of the material would not change the function of the device and changing the shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
